MARVELOUS PERFORMANCE ON THE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 .- In the presence of eight thousand spectators at Fleetwood Park to-day William Simpson's pacing stallion, John R. Gentry, defeated Robert J., Frank Agan and Star Pointer in the fastest harness race on record, the gallant little son of Ashland Wilkes stepping the first heat in 2:03%, the second in 2:03%. and the third in 2:0314. All of the finishes were very close and exciting and the contest was, from every point of view, a great one, surpassing in interest and importance any harness race of the present campaign. John R. Gentry is owned in New York and this victory was as popular as it was unexpected. If the public had foreseen the brilliant race which took place this afternoon probably twenty thousand people, instead of eight thousand, would have witnessed the contest, but Robert J. had beaten his rival so often of late and he was known to be in such good form that everybody, including the keenest circuit followers, expected him to win the champion purse at Fleetwood. The odds were 10 to 3 on him before the first heat, and so confident were his backers that he would win that the record holder remained a favorite until the end, starting at even money against the field in the final heat.

Marvelous is the only word which describes the performance of John R. Gentry. The day was too chilly to favor fast time, and a stiff breeze retarded the horses in the home stretch. Fleetwood, never a fast track, was in good condition, although not quite at its best, the soil giving way in places under the flying feet of the pacers. Gentry got two lengths the worst of the send-off in the first heat and he trailed the leaders, while Robert J. and Frank Agan went off in the lead to the threepole. Robert J. made a break point of rocks in the third quarquarter pole. ter, leaving Agan in the lead, but John R Gentry came on with a terrific burst of speed and beat him a short neck in the speed and beat him a short neck in the drive to the wire. The second heat was a repetition of the first, except that Robert J. broke before reaching the first turn and Agan was three lengths in the lead at the head of the home stretch when Andrews made his drive with Gentry. Like an arrow, the little stallion came on and cut down the gelding's lead, winning in the last strides by a short neck in 2:03%. In the last heat Gentry got away on even terms with the others and he was never headed. The pace was terrific all the way this time, Agan's head being on Gentry's shoulder from start to finish. Robert J. was an open length behind to the head of the stretch, where Geers made his drive for the heat. It was a rousing, kiffing struggle to the wire and the three great pacers were necks apart at the fin-ish, but little Gentry's nose was there first in 2:03%, and the greatest harness race on record was his.

Benton M. was a hot favorite in the 2:15 class for trotters, but Alcidalia easily out-trotted the field and the favorite, winning from wire to wire in each heat. Benton but the latter got the race in a furious drive with half a length separating Confession and Bally Roe at the end. Myrtle L. was the choice in the second, but Kentrell Religious and Second Sec tucky Belle, the second choice, was the winner, although Doggett had to ride hard to win from the outsider, Yankee Heiress. The third event was at a mile, and Roundsman and Hazlet were about equal choices at first, but Hazlet had the call at the cost. In the left further these two got choices at first, but Hazlet had the call at the post. In the last furlong those two got far away from the others and Roundsman won by a small margin. The Golden Rod stakes followed, with only two starters, and Typhoon II was a well-backed favorite. He took the lead at the start and, running under a heavy pull all the way, won very easily. Only two started in the fifth, Damien being a strong favorite over Argentine. He made every post a winning one and the filly was never within striking one, and the filly was never within striking distance. Then came the six furlongs heat race, the first of the year, with four starters and Sherlock an even-money favorite for the first heat. He led all the way and won handily. In the second heat Sherlock was held at odds on and won even easier than in the first heat, but Song and Dance upset calculations by getting the place at 6 to 1 for that position. In the seventh race Ferrier was a shade better in the betting than Lookout, with Sir Frances and Karma equal third choices, and they finished exactly in that order in a drive. Winners and odds in order: Miss Prim, 3 to 1 and 7 to 5; Kentucky Belle, 3 to 1 and even; Roundsman, 11 to 5 and 4 to 5; Typhoon II, 4 to 5 and out; Damien, 1 to 2; Sherlock, even and out first heat and 7 to 10 and out second heat; Ferrier, 7 to

NEW YORK SHUT OUT.

Foreman Pitched a Good Game for the Cincinnati Reds. NEW YORK, Sept. 2.-Cincinnati shut out New York to-day. Foreman pitched mangificently. In the fourth inning Joyce "kicked" so vigorously because of being called out on strikes that umpire Sheridan put him out of the game. The visitors got all their runs in the fourth inning on singles by McPhee, Smith and Irwin, an error by Connaughton and a base hit by Burke. McPhee's batting was a feature. Attend-

NEARLY FORTY THOUSAND OLD SOL-DIERS IN LINE AT ST. PAUL.

The Living, Waving, Singing "Old Glory" a Surprise to the Marchers, Who Cheered Wildly.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 2.-Nearly forty thousand veterans tramped the streets of St. Paul for several hours to-day, renewing the associations of their youth and feeling in their veins the martial spirit that animated them in the old days when they marched through the South as the victors over those whom they now honor as comrades in the new country that has grown up since the days when brother was arrayed against brother in bitter sectional strife. The day was an ideal one for marching, the warm rays of the sun being behind the clouds nearly all day and a slight breeze making the tramp much easier o'clock and to be prepared to move one his best men next season—Knoll, Fifield, Twineham and Gillen. Twineham, he says, will go to Louisville, while the other three, he thinks, will begin with Philadelphia. Other clubs have been after Gillen and Knoll, and there may be a lively idly. It was just 11:20 o'clock when the head of the parade reached the grand reviewing stand at Smith Park and General Walker took his place on the platform and the first division, headed by the veteran signal corps, passed in review. It was 2:35 DEFEATS ALL THE CRACKS AT this afternoon when the last post in the big eighth division, containing Minnesota's veterans, had passed, and there was scarcely a noticeable break in the line, post following post and department coming after department in almost endless succession. The enlivening music of many bands and the stirring martial sound of the veteran drum corps signaled the approach of each new department, and the crowd showed prompt appreciation of the appearance of various favorites. Waves of applause went up and down the crowd in the streets, and at times the veterans themselves took up the refrain, one of the favorite shouts being: "What's the matter with St. Paul? She's all right." For the old soldier realized. even more than before, that the gateway of the great Northwest was his, and the bread basket of the earth was not too good for him. Nothing was thought too good for the marching men. As they were lined up on the side streets, waiting the signal to otherwise looked after their comfort. Taken altogether the parade was an unqualified success, and the leading features seldom been touched before.

FORMATION OF THE PARADE. The various divisions formed on the streets that cross Western avenue. When the final gun was fired, shortly after 10 o'clock, the parade began to move south from Dayton and Western, moving south to Summit, the various divisions falling in as the column passed. General Walker and staff headed the parade, the first division, led by the veteran signal corps and including the departments of Illinois, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, following. The second division consisted of the departments of Ohio and New York. In the third division there were the departments of Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maine, California, New Hampshire, Vermont, the Potomae, Virginia and North Carolina. The fourth division was made up of the departments of Maryland, Nebraska, Michigan, Iowa and Indiana. The departments of Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, Delaware, Missouri and Oregon were in the fifth division. The sixth division in-cluded Kentucky, West Virginia, South Dakota, Washington, Alaska, Arkansas, New Mexico, Utah and Tennessee. In the seventh division were the departments of Louislana, Mississippi, Florida, Montana, Idaho, Arizona, Georgia, Alabama, North Dakota, Oklahoma and Indian Territory. The department of Minnesota closed the parade, comprising the eighth division.

As the head of the parade turned down the broad Summit avenue, the old veter-ans straightened their shoulders and tried to renew their youth, lining up as of old, when they had been able to turn a corner in a straight line. The avenue was crowded on both sides with spectators, who ap-plauded favorite posts or favorite leaders, and now and again a cheer went up for the fine appearance of some of the lessthe line appearance of some of the less-known posts. Opposite the residence of Col. R. M. Newport many white-haired veterans uncovered and saluted as they recognized the widow of their loved "Black Jack," and Mrs. J. A. Logan carefully returned every salute. As the head reached this part of the avenue a group of pretty young girls stepped out into the street and scattered flowers before the veterans, who furtively picked up the blossoms and proudly placed them in their buttonholes. This scattering of flowers in tribute of the bravery of the old veterans was done by twenty daughters NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Rev. F. Stutzke and of old soldiers, several of whom were also his small band of followers, who had exmore than a century ago, scattered flow-ers before the feet of General Washington as he was en route to New York to be in-augurated as the first President of the United States. This linking of the hero of the first war of the Nation with the coun-try's saviors in the late war was further emphasized immediately after, when the little children of the Thaddaus Maltby Chapter of the Children of the American Revo-lution saluted the veterans with their wayby a Band of Rebels.

great chorus beautifully representing "Old Glory," quickly doffed their hats and waved them in the air as they shouted their appreciation, paying little heed to the slight breeze making the tramp much easier for those in line. The crowds had no fears of possible showers, for they were here to see the Grand Army parade and proposed to see it even though it did rain. But the showers held off and everything went off according to programme.

Seldom has so large a parade come so near moving on time as did this. The first departments were directed to form at 9:30 o'clock and to be prepared to move one hour later. Not to exceed fifteen minutes patriotism shown by their children's chil-

Down through the columns that lined lower Sixth street the marching thousands kept on till they reached Smith Park, at the lower end of the street, where the grand reviewing stand had been erected. Here General Walker and staff mounted the stand and the various departments passed in formal review, dipped colors and rolling drums saluting, with the command-er-in-chief responding with a deep bow as he held his hat over his heart, which was deeply touched. On the stand were a number of past-commanders-in-chief and others of national reputation, many of whom were recognized and applauded by the veterans as they passed. INCIDENTS OF THE PARADE. The incidents of the parade were many watched by their own friends as well as by the friends of other States, and the cheers were as warm from the residents of rival departments as from their own warmest ans to show their marching abilities, and many a post drew cheer after cheer as it turned a corner in perfect alignment and with soldierly step moved on down the wide avenue. Illinois had a very large number of veterans in line, and they were deservedly popular, the famous Columbia Post, of Chicago, being but one of the many that were cheered. Wisconsin followed after the same "Old Abe" that led them with his shrill scream in so many battles, hardly felt away from home so warm was its welcome, and the stuffed eagle was cheered as lustily is in the old encampments, when the warrior bird had seemed to know just what it all meant. After Minneosta, Wis-consin reported the most men in line. Iowa, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, the Dakotas, Missouri, Kansas and Indiana had about the largest outside representation; but, of course, Minnesota led in the number in line, its division taking up more than one-sixth of the entire parade. Among the most noticeable posts was Chicago's Co-lumbia, the Ransom Post, of St. Louis, Detroit Post and the Pittsburg veterans, all of whom tried to win the laurels for fine appearance, and others were not far be-hind. The little band of Kentuckians received a warm greeting all along the line, and South Dakota's several hundred men carried a mammoth ear of corn on the end of the pole, while North Dakota went them one better by carrying corn stalks green from the fields, wrapped with wheat. Louisiana's colored veterans bore sticks on the ends of which were carried bunches of wool and cotton. The sunflower was the badge of the Kansas Department, and each post carried a bunch of them as they tramped along after the stirring songs of the Modocs, of Topeka. Florida's insignia was an aligator, carried in front of the command. Massachusetts drew applause all along the line, and little Vermont was cheered as loudly as the largest department in the parade.

General Sickles, of New York, and Department Commander William Shakes-peare, of Michigan, were allowed to ap-pear in carriages and both were cheered as they were recognized. Gen. Russell A. Alger, past cammander-in-chief, and many other individuals who marched with the rank and file were singled out for applause. General E. C. Mason, U. S. A. (retired), president of the St. Paul citizens' com-mittee, was given hearty greeting all along the line, especially by the veterans them-selves who saw in him the present representative of St. Paul's hospitality.

G. A. R. POLITICS. Altogether the parade was a grand success and the old soldiers to-night are talking over it proudly, especially recounting how they saw that living flag and what they thought of it. The parade has been in their thoughts to such an extent that the politics of the encampment must take a back seat and wait for the business sessions to open to-morrow. The candidates are still being urged by their friends, the leaders being Rear Admiral Meade, Major T. S. Clarkson and New Hampshire's candidate, Comrade Linehan. It seems tonight to be dividing between the East and the West and the fact that Buffalo will surely get the next encampment may effect the result, as the sections are somewhat jealous of the honors. There are other candidates and they will have strong support, but these are the leaders. The other officers will depend to a considerable extent on the result for commander-in-chief, so that while the electioneering is going on at a fairly lively rate it is a minor affair to most of the delegates. The Ladies of the G. A. R. met this morning at 10 o'clock, the national president Mrs. Catherine Hurst, in the chair. The rol ter of the Children of the American Revolution saluted the veterans with their waving flags and by singing a song especially written for the occasion by Mrs. J. O. Adams, of St. Paul.

The column swept down the avenue, past the ladies' headeasters in front of the ladies' headeasters.

STORMY SESSION OF THE IRISH NA-TIONAL CONVENTION.

'Disruptionists" Denounced by T. P. O'Connor-Vigorous Speech by Edward Blake-The Resolutions.

(Copyright, 1896, by the Associated Press.) DUBLIN, Sept. 2.-The Irish national convention resumed its session at 11 o'clock this morning in Leinster Hall with every prospect of a lively day before the delegates. There were rumors of war on every side and little prospect of the harmony which the convention was organized to bring about. Shortly after the convention had been called to order the Rev. Father Flynn moved the appointment of a committee of arbitration, to be composed of home and foreign delegates, with instructions to and varied, the different States being draft rules and a platform to unite all the was greeted with enthusiasm Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M. P., then took the floor, and his eloquence aroused the first breeze of the day. He read Father Flynn's departments as from their own warmest admirers. The broad sweep of Summit avenue gave many chances for the veterans to show their marching abilities and a basis of union, which resolution has since been amended and which was lieved to have been written by Mr. Timothy M. Healy, M. P., himself. Mr. O'Connor then attacked the 'disruptionists who are fighting the convention with dirty

Mr. O'Connor's attack on the Healvites was received with deafening cheers from the Dillonites and others, during which Canon Murnane, of London, succeeded in obtaining the floor and objected to Mr. O'Connor's language, which, he said, was defeating the object which the convention had in view, that of bringing about unity among Irishmen of all sections. A scene of great disorder followed and was con-tinued until Canon Murnane was ruled out of order. Mr. O'Connor then resumed his remarks and declared that the only way to kill and declared that the only way to kill dissession was to crush it by the "united determination of an angry people," and urged the convention to give the Irish leaders means of uniting the Parnellites with the Irish party. He appealed to the delegates to uphold constitutional methods, which, he added, if abandoned, meant a return to the use of dynamite.

Mr. Edward Blake, M. P., moved a resolution recognizing, as an essential element of an effective party, the hearty co-operation and cheerful subordination of each individual member of such a party. Mr.

the crew. The situation is intolerable and must be ended."

Mr. O. H. Higgins, of Boston, Mass., supported Mr. Blake's motion in a speech which was full of deflance of England, and the resolution was eventually adopted.
Mr. John Dillon, M. P., chairman of the Irish parliamentary party, who received an ovation when he rose to speak, moved the usual home rule resolutions, and called on the "men whose names were the shib-boleth of factions" to meet in the autumn, abdicate as leaders and choose a new leader to whom all can give unbroken sup-A meeting of the foreign delegates was held after the convention adjourned, and, following an animated discussion, a reso-
